Barrett,

I found your post on Hastings article and the defense of his journalism admirable and intelligent. I have a profound respect for Michael Hastings in regards to this article and the way he has chosen to write and portray it. He has, indeed, changed the course of what's to come in regards to the War and with supporters like yourself, it's a relief to know that there is support of the kind of journalism Hastings is putting out. Thank you for that post and I hope more journalists come around to this new and far more honest portrayal of the world and the constantly -changing events that take place in it.

Sincerely,

Karen Kinderman
